

Providing school supplies for children in the nation's distressed communities

The ABC's of SchoolTools

Across the country, groups of all kinds are rolling up their sleeves and joining the SchoolTools campaign. When you host a SchoolTools event you are helping at-risk children earn something we often take for granted—an education. With school supplies comes the opportunity to engage in learning, setting the foundation for a brighter future.

You can make a difference!

Your group can work together, assemble SchoolTools backpacks, and make a big difference in the lives of children in need.

How are SchoolTools backpacks assembled?

Companies, churches, and community organizations purchase the supplies through World Vision, host an event, and assemble the supplies into backpacks.

Where do SchoolTools go?

SchoolTools backpacks are distributed to students in your area through a local World Vision Storehouse or local nonprofit organization serving children in need.

World Vision is a Christian humanitarian organization dedicated to working with children, families, and their communities worldwide to reach their full potential by tackling the causes of poverty and injustice. World Vision serves all people, regardless of religion, race, ethnicity, or gender.
