

Aundre D. Washington

Passionate about motivating ministry and nonprofit leaders to reach their community and make an impact on the world

As the warehouse manager for the World Vision Storehouse in Fife, Washington, Aundre oversees distribution of corporate donations to people in need, both domestically and abroad. Prior to this position, he served as a supervisor, team lead, and supply chain coordinator for the Storehouse in Dallas, where he helped oversee efforts to provide relief to hurricane survivors.

Aundre appreciates the opportunities these roles have given him to develop as a servant leader, sharing that it's his greatest desire to use his God-given gifts to encourage others and provide tangible help. He is drawn to working with World Vision because it allows him to express his faith and live out his walk with Christ. As a licensed, ordained minister, he delights in the opportunity to impact lives in the ways he is most passionate about: preaching, teaching, and advising. When he speaks, he engages his audience with his genuine servant's heart and Southern charm as he delivers a message that is both compelling and inspiring.

Aundre attended Criswell College and has studied expository preaching at the Southern Bible Institute.

Natives and longtime residents of Dallas, Aundre and his wife, Lauren, now reside in Federal Way, Washington with their two sons, Chancellor and Connor.

worldvision.org/speakers | speakers@worldvision.org

World Vision is a Christian humanitarian organization dedicated to working with children, families, and their communities worldwide to reach their full potential by tackling the causes of poverty and injustice. Visit worldvision.org for more information.